

WESTERLY HUNTER KILLED

Joseph Costando Fatally Injured While Hunting—Complete List of License Applicants—Mrs. John B. Foster Dead—Strike at Lorraine Mill—Rev. C. A. Burdick Addresses Board of Trade.

In order that legal notice could be given and that business begin with the license year, which commences December 1, it was specified by the town council of Westerly that all applications for licenses be filed with Town Clerk Whipple by noon of Tuesday. On the basis of one liquor license for each five hundred of inhabitants, Westerly is entitled to seventeen licenses and the town council has decided to issue to the limit.

Applications for renewal of license were received as follows: Frank Corran, 53 Pierce street; Louis H. Eddy, 73 Pierce; Charles H. Fay, Watch Hill house; John P. Champlin, Ocean house; Frank Marino, 95 Pierce street; Joseph A. Guarino, 32 Granite; John Catto, Bradford; Pasquale Salameo, 85 Pierce street; Santa Turano, 71 Pierce; wholesale; Alphonso Accotto, 73 Pierce; Frank S. Holliday, 157 Granite; Andrew J. Martin, 34 Canal; Natale Benvenuti, 48 Canal; Michael McCarthy, 29 White Rock road; Giuseppe Turano, 73 Pleasant.

No applications for renewal were received from Charles P. Dunham, Canal street, and Halcyon house, Watch Hill. The new applicants received are as follows:

Peter M. Rose, 78 Oak street; William Pickering, 68-70 Main street; Joseph Recchio, 78 Granite; Joseph Recchio, for building to be erected; James H. Blackler, 79 Pierce, wholesale; Horace P. Sisson, Leonard house, 55 Main; Ralph W. Lawton, Varietyville, wholesale; Charles D. Haven, 56 Canal; Charles C. Taft, New Park hotel, High street; Frank Bruno, 81 Pleasant, wholesale; Giuseppe Lalama, 101 Canal; Francesco Chiodi, 203 Canal; Luigi Toscano, 73 Pleasant; Genaro Guarino, Niantic road.

There are just fifteen applications for renewals and the two licenses that are not desired by the present holders. Of these, the license granted a year ago to Mr. Dunham was for the Charles D. Havens place. So in reality the only one at present, holding license and who has not applied for renewal is Thomas J. O'Brien, proprietor of the Halcyon house. Mr. O'Brien is a medical student, was recently married and has no inclination to engage in the liquor business for the coming year. The town council will give hearing on the applications November 29, and will probably grant the legalized number of licenses at that session.

Mrs. Elizabeth Foster-Perry-Barclay, daughter of the late Charles Temperance Foster Perry and widow of John Barclay Foster, died Tuesday morning at her home in High street, in her 54th year. Her husband was born at 94 High street in 1841 and died there after a brief illness April 7, 1901. He was clerk at the Phenix National bank and became cashier in 1865, retaining the position up to the time of his death. The Mechanics Savings bank was organized in 1870 with Henry Foster as treasurer, until 1882, when he was succeeded by John Barclay Foster, who combined his duties as cashier of the national bank and treasurer of the savings bank.

Mrs. Foster was born in Westerly, and always resided here. She was the sister of Charles Perry, president of the Washington Trust company; Mrs. Frederic B. Sumner, of Westerly; Arthur Perry of Boston. She was mother of ten children and is survived by one son and four daughters: William Wilber Foster of Westerly; Mrs. Samuel Pennock of Lansdowne, Pa.; Mrs. Horatio Nelson Willis of Lansdowne; Miss Mary E. and Miss Eva Lucy Foster of Westerly.

There was a large attendance of friends including representative men of Westerly at the funeral of John Joseph Barclay in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Tuesday. In the solemn requiem high mass, Rev. Peter McOscar was celebrant, Rev. John Dunn, deacon and Rev. Henry Bruno sub-deacon. Mrs. Robert McInnis was at the organ for Miss Carney, daughter of deceased, the regular organist.

Thomas V. Clancy sang Calvary for a bass solo, Martin H. Spellman, tenor, sang Jesus, Lover of My Soul. Burial was at the cemetery. The bearers were Michael Driscoll, Nicholas Dooley, Thomas Crowley, Thomas Geraty and John Gilmore.

Joseph Costando, twenty-three years of age, son of Francesco Costando, of 85 Pierce street, was fatally shot while running Tuesday afternoon in the woods between the White schoolhouse and the farm of William L. Clark, president of the Westerly town council. Accompanying Costando was a young companion, Louis Salameo, and they were quite a distance apart when the accident occurred. Salameo heard the report of Costando's gun, followed with loud shouting and he hurried in the direction of the sounds. He found Costando on the ground with a great wound in the breast just under the shoulder. He dragged the wounded young man to the roadside and ran to the residence of Mr. Clarke and reported the accident, requesting that medical attendance be summoned.

Dr. M. H. Scanlon received call by telephone and hurried in his automobile to the aid of Costando. He found the young man lying by the roadside with Salameo comforting him as best he could. After giving preliminary relief, the doctor took the suffering young man to the Costando home in Pierce street.

Mrs. Lewis and Savage were summoned to the aid of Dr. Scanlon and the terrible wound was dressed and treated to the best advantage under the circumstances. While Costando was suffering great pain he told in a disconnected way how the accident happened. He had made his way through tangled brush by pushing the gun ahead of him on the ground for a distance. He kept on and out of the brush and left the gun on the ground. He then reached for the gun, taking it by the muzzle, and pulled it towards him. Almost immediately the gun was discharged and he realized that he was severely wounded.

The gun was heavily loaded with BB shot and the entire charge took effect. Costando's shoulder was practically shot away and there was a large wound in the upper left breast and some of the shot entered the left lung.

Costando died about 10 o'clock, on account of the shock and loss of blood. He was a native of Italy. Besides his father he leaves several brothers and sisters. Some forty of the weavers of the Pawcatuck branch of the Lorraine Manufacturing company have quit work because of a change made in the goods manufactured that precluded the weavers on this new class of goods from earning over $125 a day, while other weavers in the same room on another grade of goods could earn the regular wages of about $25 a day. The claim is made that the rate paid for the weaving of these goods is entirely inadequate, and that no matter how expert the workman, or how willing to work hard, there is no possibility of making average wages.

These weavers have been out since Friday and have kept the matter as quiet as possible, making no demonstration, in the hope that the mill managers would recognize the alleged unfairness and improve the existing conditions. There was a double fire alarm, eight times 63 tooted off by the big steam whistle at the Cottrell plant in response to the pulling down of the lever in the box located at Liberty and Smith streets on the West Side, at 6:50 Tuesday evening. The P. S. Barker hose company made quick response but there was no need for their service. The cause of the big noise and commotion was due to the excited condition of an individual who saw the chimney of a tenement house in upper Liberty street emitting sparks and rushed to the fire alarm box and sent in the alarm twice in succession.

Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist church, was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Westerly board of trade in the town hall Tuesday evening. Vice President Ira P. Randall presiding. He spoke on What the Aim of the Board of Trade Should Be. He said it was not expected that a minister could tell the aims and objects of the organization, as the minister was not counted as a business man and was not supposed to be familiar with finance. He had desired that the local board would be the best business association in the world, but he composed of the best business men, in the bettering of one's business, the business of others should not be forgotten. There should be a desire to help the business of others for the good of all. When the mills are running there is a general bettering of the business of the banks, the merchants and the individuals, so it is advisable for all to help in all kinds of legitimate business.

There should be desire to show to others the good things there are in the town of Westerly and all work for the welfare of the town, and pay more attention to visitors. Mr. Burdick made reference to his recent trip to the Pacific coast and the attention given the party en route in towns which they visited. He spoke of Hutchinson, Kan.; Albuquerque, N. M.; and Riverside, Cal. In these places the party were met by delegations of business men, taken in automobiles and shown the points of industrial, aesthetic and business interest. These committees knew that members of the party had money to invest, but that they had tongues that might wag for the benefit of these places. It would do no harm for Westerly to do something in that line, for it is much better to be known than to be unknown. Suppose a party of visitors should set off at the Westerly railway station for a short stay, how many of the business men would show the visitors, the park, the library, the churches, the manufacturers, the natural industrial sites, call attention to the purity and supply of the water and the many public facilities? All should take interest in strangers, and although expecting nothing from them, they may tell others of Westerly.

Mr. Burdick said more attention should be paid the outlying sections, and industries that cannot be secured for Westerly may be for these places, and referred to the aid that the big concern in Hartford would be to the Westerly people. He favored the re-population and exploiting of the farming section, and said he spoke from experience as he was raised on a farm. We do not pay sufficient attention to the uplifting of the farming sections, for farmers are good buyers if they have money, and there is a great need for proper farming. A local real estate agent told the speaker that a client from Boston who was shown the surrounding country declared that the farmers did not try to farm it. There should be encouragement given to the raising of small fruits, for they can be raised just as cheaply here and hereabouts and in as great an abundance as anywhere. Mr. Burdick referred to the successful farming of Robert Conon on Chase hill as an indisputable example.

Mr. Burdick advocated a better acquaintance with each other and help between us as well as ourselves. The people should not be too conservative or

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea" and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

This remedy is sold under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented. If your hair is losing color or coming out, start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur today, and see what a change it will make in a few days' time.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special agent, The Lee & Osgood Co., 131 Main street.

clannish, but there should be a better social life.

Mr. Burdick spoke at length and in an interesting and forceful way, and in conclusion declared that we should not only be better business men, working for the industrial advancement of Westerly, but admirers of the virtues of men, and then the Westerly board of trade would surely be one of the best business organizations of the best business men in the world.

Mr. Burdick was given a ringing vote of thanks at the conclusion of his address.

Under suspension of the rules William H. Perry, Walter S. Price, D. Harold Rogers and Frederick P. Schwaner were admitted to membership.

Frederick C. Buffum and Frank W. Cotto of the committee on municipal improvement and traffic made report of progress on the matter of an early morning train to New York.

The following were elected delegates to the Connecticut state board of trade to be held November 23 in New London: Albert R. Stillman, Albert G. Martin, Dr. John Champlin and Charles Perry.

Resolutions were adopted, urging the Westerly delegates to the general assembly to favor the formation of the state police and it was voted to ask the industrial associations of the state to co-operate.

Irvine O. Chester, chairman of the educational committee, announced that John L. Sewell of Worcester would be the speaker at the December meeting. Subject: The Scope of the Ideal Board of Trade.
